

Ohio Landowner Association Contacts

If you know of another Landowner Association working in Ohio, please submit their contact information to us at susi@ruralaction.org

Landowner Associations may or may not be accepting additional acreage. Different Landowner Associations have different rates and fees they require of landowners. Please be sure to ask about requirements and fees prior to joining any Landowner Association.

Joining a Landowner Association is not required for leasing your land to an oil and gas company.

Some landowners may benefit in joining a Landowner Association. It is not a guarantee that you will see higher prices per acre or higher royalties by joining an association.
